

Come and hike the newly revitalized landscape at Historic Fort Snelling with its stunning river overlooks, paved and unpaved pathways, native plantings, enhanced interpretive spaces and places to reflect. As you walk through the grounds you might think about the Dakota, Ojibwe, enslaved people, fur traders, immigrants, soldiers and veterans who have lived here.

Another day you might come back to see more of the $34.5 million revitalization project which included the removal of a failing 1980s underground visitor center and creation of the dynamic new Plank Museum & Visitor Center inside a rehabilitated 1904 cavalry barracks. The new center has exhibits, galleries, meeting rooms, store, and snacks.
