Leaving a Legacy: How to organize and preserve your memories in a digital world

How we take and share photos is completely different today than it was only 10 years ago. Phones are exploding with memories and those old albums and boxes of photos we’ve inherited or accumulated need to be preserved if we want to tell our family stories.

Holly Corbin, a Certified Professional Photo Organizer, is the founder/owner of Capture Your Photos, where she helps families celebrate life, tell stories, and touch hearts with their photo and video collections. She believes that photos are a powerful force in building relationships and loves helping families connect, while bringing them the peace of mind knowing their memories are safe.

Holly is the creator of a series of online courses called The Photo Organizing Blueprint, which offer step-by-step guides to organizing both your digital and printed memories. She lives with her husband in Stillwater, MN and has 3 very photogenic children. <https://www.captureyourphotos.com/>
